ODD FELLOWS' CELEBRATION, JULY 3.

Plans Progressing for Gala Day—Orphanage Band Here Friday and Saturday.

The time is fast approaching for the Odd Fellows' celebration at Centre Hall. If July 3rd proves a fair day there is every reason to believe that the efforts of the local order to make this a gala day for everybody will be a grand success. The various committees appointed for the shaping of the celebration are vying with each other to have their feature of the celebration the best and at a recent meeting made very favorable reports.

The celebration will open Friday evening with a band concert and festival on Grange Park. The Orphanage band of twenty-six pieces will be here and these little musicians will prove a big attraction, both from a standpoint of their ability and the interest that each true Odd Fellow has in their well being. Saturday will be a day of fun and entertainment all day long. A big fantastic parade in the morning will be the principal attraction. Everybody is invited to take part in this regardless of their affiliation with the order. The Pleasant Gap young people, who have a reputation for pulling off the best there is in a mummer's parade, have consented to take part in the parade. Lodges throughout the county have also been invited to take part and march in their respective bodies. The afternoon will be given over to all kinds of amusements which are advertised on the large posters, all of which will take place on Grange Park. The band will keep you in good spirits with many excellent selections. Dinner may be procured on the ground. Plan nothing else for Saturday, July 3 rd, but come to Centre Hall and feel welcome.

The Telephone Picnic.

As president of the Patron's Rural Telephone Company, I take pleasure to invite the general public to the annual basket picnic to be held at Rhoneymede, Saturday of this week.

Those who desire to come by train can reach the grounds from Gregg station by a walk of but a few minutes. Several hours can be spent there coming from the east or west.

LEONARD RHONE.

Dead at 101 Years.

Mrs. Amelia Fisher, possibly the oldest resident in the state, died at her home in Sunbury Saturday morning of last week, aged 101 years, 8 months and 9 days. She was a daughter of George Weiser and was born in Sunbury. She was married to Rev. Richard A. Fisher, Reformed minister, who served several charges in the section. Four children survive the mother.

"The Centre Hall Grange."

From the Howard Hustler, apropos of the recent special meeting of Pomona Grange at Howard.

June first, nineteen fifteen, was Tuesday's date;
The place was Pennsylvania's state,
The local village was Centre Hall,
As pretty a place as you could recall,
With beautiful mountains on either side,
In a fertile valley—the Granger's pride.
In Centre county of governor's fame
Adopting now penitentiary's name!
Tuesday the sun shone bright and fair,
And bloom-odored breezes were everywhere.

There were autos brought out at an early hour
While dew was yet on leaf and flower.
For Progress Grange had detailed a few—
It's staunch, firm members, tried and true.
There was Mr. Honorable Leonard Rhone,
Past State Grange Master so widely known.
Miss Florence, acknowledged adviser of Grange,
So perfect they never will call for a change,
Mr. Bitner, the druggist, and master of same,
The Reporter's editor, Smith, too came;
Jacob Shearer and wife from their farm near town,
And Miss Dinges, too, came down;
Mrs. Vergie Durst Keller with usual life,
And Mrs. D. W. Bradford kept pleasantry rife;
Joshua Potter retired from farm and its work,
The call of Grange duties he never would shirk.

There might have been others I did not see,
But these made a happy-him-her-them and me.
Then chunk, chunk, chunk, and out another hike
These dutiful Grangers proceeded to hike
Over Nittany Mountain, and then, O, then!
Past where you get glimpses of the great new pen!
Through Pleasant Gap whizzing then some more
And past the landmark of Axe Mann store.
On through Bellefonte on the grand state road
Each auto seemed to have just no load.
Then on through Milesburg and Curtin away
Toward the ridges of Howard down that way,
Mount Eagle the next place the company passed
And next unto Howard it proved to be last,
Then down into Howard where they were received,
By those in good standing in Grange had achieved
Their presence down here was but to inspire
While each for the other ones good would enquire
Their work a success, through the middle of day
The Grangers of fifth degree here held sway,
And when toward the mountain and ridges the sun
Was sinking to rest—their days' work was done,
They gave to our town a pleasant adieu
We regretted their going now! Now did not you?

But such is this life, so the best thing for all
Is to learn to appreciate their good call,
And live so their errand which was to uplift,
Shall shine in our lives from that days rift,
And now at the sunset congratulate
The Centre Hall Grange whose work is great.

The Last Elk Again.

Henry W. Shoemaker is finding in his travels throughout the central part of the state quite a number of old hunters who want credit for having slain the last elk in Pennsylvania, for which Capt. John Decker of Centre county had been accorded the honor. Mr. Shoemaker, in a recent issue of the Altoona Tribune says:

About two weeks ago the writer was driving through Sugar Valley in Clinton county en route to the famous Buffalo Path, where in the depths of the forest are preserved the hoofprints of the "vanished millions" of bison when on their migrations between Lake Erie and Georgia. Our guide, the genial and well-informed Clem. Herlacher, asked us to stop at a bleak farmhouse to meet Daniel Engle, a wolf hunter now in his eighty-fifth year, and hear from him stories of his adventures with the wolves in Green's Gap sixty-five years ago.

After talking with the old gentleman we were presented to his younger brother, John Engle, a gentleman in his sixty-third year, who being born too late to battle with the wolves, won prowess as a deer hunter. John Engle was at once ready to take issue with the statement that Captain John Decker, of Decker Valley, Centre county, had killed the last native wild elk in Pennsylvania. "I killed the last Pennsylvania elk," said Mr. Engle. "Captain Decker shot his elk in 1877, while mine fell to my rifle a full year later, in 1878. I killed the elk in Black Gap, early in October of that year, and to prove what I say, I still have the horns. I don't want to detract from Captain Decker's exploit, as we hunters all know and love him, but at the same time it is well to get hunting annals straight."

Years ago the writer had heard from Mr. Herlacher that an elk had been killed in Sugar Valley in 1878, and had even repeated the story to an authority on Natural History; but the name of the hunter was forgotten, and the incident dismissed from the mind. But again the story is reviewed and clinched by the mighty hunter himself. The slayers of "Pennsylvania's last elk" will soon reach an even half dozen. There is Jim Jacobs, Jim Jacobson, Smith Hunter, Captain John Decker, and John Engle. Perhaps there will be more claimants to the title as time goes on. But Captain Decker and Mr. Engle, being happily in the land of the living, can press their claims more effectually. Besides the dates of their exploits give the victory safely to them. Mr. Engle states that the elk which he killed was a young animal, weighing just under 300 pounds, and was probably driven south by forest fires from Potter county.

Bryar-Grieb.

Miss Ethel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Grieb, of State College, was united in marriage to J. Frank Bryar at 5:15 Wednesday morning of last week by Father O'Hanlon at the home of the bride on North Atherton street. Mr. and Mrs. Bryar left on the early morning train for New York.

Mrs. Bryar is well known in Centre Hall where she taught two terms in the public schools a few years ago.

Sells His Car for a Quarter.

Disgusted with his automobile which took a "cranky spell" the other day at Ramey, John Duncan, of Portage, in the presence of a lot of on-lookers, said he would sell the critter for twenty-five cents. "Mister, I got a quarter," said a youngster standing nearby. "The machine's yourn," said Mr. Duncan, as he removed his belongings from the car. The lad took possession of the same, has learned to run the car and it has been on its good behavior ever since. Mr. Duncan and his companion, Ray Monigal, completed their journey by train.—Philipsburg Journal.

LETTER FROM CALIFORNIA.

A. N. Runkle, of the Runkle Shoe Company, Takes Issue With Writer Who Says California No Corn State—Would Like to Visit Scenes of His Youth.

Centre Hall Reporter,
Centre Hall, Pa.

Inclosed find money order for $3.00 for the Reporter. I am always glad to get the paper from home. It arrives here on the following Tuesday and I read all that it contains—some items with joy, others with sadness and some in the ridiculous. For instance, some time ago a letter from Los Angeles, written by (I can't think of her name now but it used to be) Mary Ellen Strohm, saying that she had not seen any corn since she came out here. I would suggest that she take a trip to the Petelands, just south of Los Angeles about twenty miles and she would see larger and better corn than she ever saw in Pennsylvania. Farmers ride horseback through the corn so that they can reach the top ears to husk them.

I often wish that I could come back and see the old home but I suppose most all would be strangers to me now. In this week's paper, under items from '81, I see where Rev. D. J. Mitterling goes to Egg Hill to preach. Well I remember that for I took him down there with father's horse and buggy.

I should love to just go up on top of the mountain at Centre Hall and look over beautiful Penns Valley. I remember what good times we used to have up there.

I expect to see quite a few people from the east this year coming out here to the Fair and they could not afford to come to California without stopping at Santa Barbara, the finest spot on earth. So if you come out stop here and I will show you a good time. Yours respectfully,

A. N. RUNKLE,

Santa Barbara, Cal., June 9, 1915.

Moyer-Heckman.

Archie A. Moyer and Miss Amy Heckman, unknown to their friends, slipped away quietly Thursday of last week to Lock Haven where they were made man and wife. The ceremony took place at the United Evangelical parsonage and was conducted by Rev. A. F. Weaver. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Moyer, west of Centre Hall, and the bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Heckman of near Spring Mills, who for some time has been employed at the Old Fort.

Band Concert at Penns Cave.

B. P. Campbell, proprietor of the Penns Cave House, has made arrangements to have the Orphanage band render a concert, consisting of sacred numbers, on the cave property, on Sunday, July 4th, the day following the celebration at Centre Hall. The youngsters will afterwards be treated to a trip through the cavern.

College Men and Politics.

That was excellent counsel H. Walton Mitchell, president of the board of trustees, gave State College graduates at commencement when he urged them to be active in political life. Mr. Mitchell is the first alumnus to be honored as commencement orator.

Mr. Mitchell who is a lawyer in Pittsburgh and a tireless worker for Penn State, has been out in the busy world long enough to know the need for honest, upright educated men in public life. He told the State men:

"I regret that the educated have too often thought of political affairs as side issues, not worth their consideration. If there is one improvement we need more than any other in public affairs in America, it is to have men of strong minds and characters take part in our official life."

Here lies the cause of the most of the ills of government. Disinterestedness from the failure to go to the polls to the failure to check up the conduct of public officials spells the great crime of negligence of which so many Americans are guilty. Legislation of various sorts has been discussed, sought and enacted to bring about a compulsory interest in public affairs, but at best such remedies are only partial.

What Americans need is a quickening of conscience, a realization through other than legislative channels of individual duty to government. Time was when it was thought that the college man with his four years' instruction in ethics, philosophy and high ideals would become the leaders in movements for honest and efficient government. And many of him have, but many of him haven't.

But because all of them have not become zealous for good government does not lessen the imperative duty of someone to inform all men and particularly young men about to embark in self-dependent life of the duties of citizenship. It is a warning that cannot be sounded too often; an exhortation always justified.—Harrisburg Patriot.

Wheat Prospects Improving.

Reports made to the bureau of statistics of the state department of agriculture, which made a special effort to procure accurate data on the effects of the weather on the crops as of June 1, show that the wheat prospects of the state have improved materially.

The condition of the wheat is 92, as compared with an average for June 1, for the last ten years. This is an improvement of 2 per cent over May 1 and of 4 per cent over April 1, according to the figures compiled by Chief L. H. Wible. Reports show that approximately 1 per cent of the acreage sown in wheat last fall was plowed down and sown with something else, mostly corn and oats.

It is estimated that 1,312,000 acres of wheat will be harvested this year, and present indications are that the crop will be about 15.3 bushels to the acre. This should make it more than 20,000,000 bushels, which will be short of what it was last year. The Hessian fly is doing some damage.

Rye is reported as showing an improvement of 2 per cent over reports as of May 1, the condition compared with an average being 94 per cent. Oats, as compared with the average for June 1 for the last ten years, is 99 per cent, and corn is above the average, the rating being 104 per cent, although it is early in the year. Estimates are that 271,600 acres of rye will be harvested this year and the yield about 15.75 bushels per acre. The oat yield should be 30 bushels to the acre. The corn area is estimated at 1,521,520 acres.

The cold weather has interfered with the timothy and clover crops, and the condition is below the average.

Frost damaged the fruit as well as other crops, the prospects for various fruits being lower than for some years. Strawberry prospects are given as considerably below those of last year. In addition to frost, which was more severe in the western part of the state than in the eastern, fire blight and caterpillars are causing trouble in orchards.

DEATHS.

Charles C. Cummings died suddenly at his home in Spring Mills, Sunday at the noon hour while seated in a rocking chair awaiting the call for dinner. Heart failure was the cause of his demise. Up until Thursday he was in his usual good health and after taking medical treatment at that time appeared to have improved. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock at his late home and interment was made in the Presbyterian cemetery at Spring Mills, Rev. W. H. Williams officiating.

Mr. Cummings was born in Philadelphia more than eighty-two years ago and about a half century ago made his first trips through Penns Valley as a shoe salesman. In this vocation he was an expert and continued for a long term of years. He was a man well versed in the topics of the day and was a veritable storehouse of knowledge. He gained quite a reputation through his ability as a writer and many times wrote good articles for the daily press. About twenty-six years ago he removed to Spring Mills where he had been actively engaged ever since. Although well advanced in years he assisted at times different Spring Mills merchants in taking care of the books. Surviving him are his wife and two daughters—Misses Ella and Anna Cummings—at home. One sister, residing in Philadelphia, also survives.

Mrs. Emily Cronmiller, relict of George Cronmiller, died quite suddenly at the home of her son-in-law, H. M. Cronoble, near Pine Hall, where the aged lady made her home mostly since the death of her husband twelve years ago. For several days previous she had not been well and on Sunday evening, June 6th, her daughter, upon taking the evening meal to her mother, found her dead. Her age was seventy-one years, five months and seven days. She was a daughter of Daniel Houser and was born in the village that bears her name—Houserville. At the age of twenty-one she became the wife of George Cronmiller and to them eleven children were born—eight sons and three daughters, ten of whom survive, as follows: John, of Stormstown; Fred, of Minnesota; Aaron, of Tacoma, Wash.; Curtis and Charles, of Patton; Frank, Moses and Lloyd, of Bedford; Mrs. Robert Rossman, Mrs. H. M. Cronoble, of Pine Hall. Also, three brothers mourn her loss. From her youth she was a member of the Reformed church. Interment was made Wednesday afternoon in the Pine Hall cemetery by the side of her husband, Rev. S. C. Stover officiating.

Following an illness which extended over a period of three years, George Beahers passed away Friday morning at his home near Pine Hall. He was confined to bed for only two days with Bright's disease and while not unexpected, the news of his passing away was received with sincere sorrow by his legion of friends. He was a successful farmer and stock raiser and enjoyed the confidence of all who knew him. He was a member of the Lutheran church and served as deacon and trustee and was a member of the building committee. He was identified with the State College lodge, I. O. O. F., which turned out in a body and performed the ritualistic work at the grave.

Deceased was a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Beahers and was born in Buffalo Run valley, March 20, 1858. On May 14, 1885 he married Isabella A. McCormick who survives with one son. One brother and two sisters also mourn his loss. Burial was made Sunday afternoon in the Pine Hall cemetery, his pastor and friend, Rev. L. S. Spangler, officiating. The funeral cortege was the largest in many years.

Alice, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jared Ripka, of Georges Valley, died on Tuesday of last week, following an illness from yellow jaundice. The child was aged two months and sixteen days. Funeral service was held Friday and burial made in the Cross church cemetery, Rev. J. M. Price officiating.

J. H. Bitner of near Colyer was a caller at this office on Saturday. Mr. Bitner, together with Peter D. Phillips and Elmer Miller finished painting the buildings on the Hon. L. Rhone farm last week, consequently the Rhoneymede surroundings will be in beautiful shape for the telephone picnic on Saturday.

The twelfth annual picnic of the Centre County Association of Philadelphia will be held at Belmont Mansion, Fairmount Park, on Saturday. A big day is anticipated and there is no doubt as to the weather, for the announcements state specifically that "special arrangement has been made with the weather man."

Mrs. Chas. D. Bartholomew and two daughters, Margaret and Elizabeth, Mrs. Rose DeWoodie and Miss Helen Bartholomew, spent a week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenza Wilt, at Franklin, Venango county, making the trip in the Bartholomew car. Enroute they stopped at Curwensville for a short time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Kittleberger.

The Patrons Rural Telephone Company picnic, at Rhoneymede, on Saturday, promises to be the largest gathering ever assembled on a similar occasion. The invitation is general, the public being invited to enjoy the day along with the patrons and stockholders of the rural telephone system. Hon. L. Rhone has enhanced the beauty of the Rhoneymede by having all the farm buildings painted and otherwise preparing for the event.

Allen C. Erhard of Wellington, Kansas, who was visiting friends in Penn township for several weeks, suffered a stroke of paralysis on Wednesday evening of last week, while walking from Coburn to the home of Alfred Keen, south of Millheim, says the Journal. He was found lying in a mud puddle near the home of W. W. Brauch, where he was picked up and conveyed to to the Keen home in Mr. Keen's buggy. Medical aid was summoned, and he has slightly recovered. His whole one side is affected. Mr. Erhard had planned to leave the next morning for his western home and would have been accompanied by his father-in-law, William Wert.

While in Bellefonte one day last week the writer witnessed an incident that would match the funniest of comics in a Sunday edition of a metropolitan newspaper. A young man of good appearance and dress was playing a stream of water issuing from a garden hose on the crushed stones at the corner of Allegheny and Bishop streets. When he was about to turn off the water he switched the stream from the street to the side walk. He failed to notice, however, that two well-dressed women were walking in his direction and he gave them the full benefit of the wet article, holding the hose at such an angle that the women's faces proved the target at which he fired. The "washing" continued for fully ten seconds during which time the victims were unable to move, so it appeared, when the young fellow realized the stunt which he had unintentionally performed, but not until after he had done much damage to fine lingerie besides ruffling the temper of the pedestrians. He was profuse in apologies but that failed in its effect and he was subjected to a calling down that brought forth a sanguine color on his countenance.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S NOTE FIRM BUT NOT WARLIKE

Demands Assurance From Germany That American Lives and American Ships Will Be Safeguarded.

Declaring Germany Misinformed as to Lusitania, Government Stands Fast on Principles Laid Down in its First Protest Against Acts of Submarines.

Washington.—The United States, in its latest note to Germany, formally asks the imperial government for assurances that measures hereafter will be adopted to safeguard "American lives and American ships" on the high seas. The alternative in case of refusal is not stated.

It was this note to which William Jennings Bryan refused to attach his signature, resigning instead, his portfolio of secretary of state and thereby precipitating a dramatic Cabinet crisis. Robert Lansing, secretary of state ad interim, signed the communication which went forth with the approval of President Wilson and his entire Cabinet.

Friendly terms characterize the document, which renews representations made in the American note that reached Germany on May 15, after the Lusitania was torpedoed and sunk, with a loss of more than 100 American lives. The German government, it is declared, "must have been misinformed" when it assumed that the Lusitania carried guns, as official information is at hand to corroborate the original contention of the Washington government that the Lusitania was an unarmed passenger ship which, since it did not resist capture, could not be sunk without transferring passengers and crew to a place of safety.

WHAT AMERICA EXPECTS.

The communication informs Germany that it is "on the principle of humanity, as well as upon the law founded upon this principle, that the United States must stand." Opportunity is given to Germany to submit any evidence that American officials did not execute their tasks thoroughly in inspecting the Lusitania before she sailed, but the cardinal fact—that the liner was given no warning and made no resistance and was primarily a passenger ship—the American government declares throws "into the background any special circumstances of detail" and lifts the case "out of the class of ordinary subjects of diplomatic discussion or international controversy."

TEXT OF THE NOTE.

The text of the note follows:

"The Secretary of State, Ad Interim to the American Ambassador at Berlin.

"Department of State,
"Washington, June 9, 1915.

"American Ambassador, Berlin: You are instructed to deliver textually the following note to the Minister of Foreign Affairs:

"In compliance with Your Excellency's request, I did not fail to transmit to my government immediately upon their receipt, your note of May 28, in reply to my note of May 15, and your supplementary note of June 1, setting forth the conclusions so far as reached by the Imperial German Government concerning the attacks on the American steamers Cushing and Gulflight. I am now instructed by my government to communicate the following in reply:

"The government of the United States notes with gratification the full recognition by the Imperial German Government, in discussing the cases of the Cushing and the Gulflight of the principle of the freedom of all parts of the open sea to neutral ships and the frank willingness of the Imperial German Government to acknowledge and meet its liabilities where the fact of attack upon neutral ships 'which have not been guilty of any hostile act' by German aircraft vessels of war is satisfactorily established, and the Government of the United States will, in due course, lay before the Imperial German Goverhment, as it requests, full information concerning the attack on the steamer Cushing.

THE FALABA CASE.

"With regard to the sinking of the steamer Falaba, by which an American citizen lost his life, the Government of the United States is surprised to find the Imperial German Government contending that an effort on the part of a merchantman to escape capture and secure assistance alters the obligation of the officer seeking to make the capture, in respect of the safety of the lives of those on board the merchantman, although the vessel had ceased her attempt to escape when torpedoed. These are not new circumstances. They have been in the minds of statesmen and of international jurists throughout the development of naval warfare, and the Government of the United States does not understand that they have ever been held to alter the principles of humanity upon which it has insisted. Nothing but actual forcible resistance or continued efforts to escape by flight when ordered to stop for the purpose of visit on the part of the merchantmen has ever been held to forfeit the lives of her passengers or crew. The Government of the United States, however, does not understand that the Imperial German Government is seeking in this case, to relieve itself of liability, but only intends to set forth the circumstances which led the commander of the submarine to allow himself to be hurried into the course which he took.

NO GUNS ON LUSITANIA.

"Your Excellency's note, in discussing the loss of American lives resulting from the sinking of the steamship Lusitania, adverts at some length to certain information which the Imperial German government has received with regard to the character and outfit of that vessel, and your Excellency expresses the fear that this information may not have been brought to the attention of the government of the United States. It is stated in the note that the Lusitania was undoubtedly equipped with masked guns, supplied with trained gunners and special ammunition, transporting troops from Canada, carrying a corgo not permitted under the laws of the United States to a vessel also carrying passengers, and serving, in virtual effect, as an auxiliary to the naval forces of Great Britain. Fortunately these are matters concerning which the government of the United States is in a position to give the Imperial German Government official information. Of the facts alleged in Your Excellency's note, if true, the government of the United States would have been bound to take official cognizance in performing its recognized duty as a neutral power and in enforcing its national laws. It was its duty to see to it that the Lusitania was not armed for offensive action, that she was not serving as a transport, that she did not carry a cargo prohibited by the statutes of the United States, and that, in fact, she was a naval vessel of Great Britain, she should not receive clearance as a merchantman; and it performed that duty and enforced its statutes with scrupulous vigilance through its regularly constituted officials. It is able, therefore, to assure the Imperial German Government that it has been misinformed. If the Imperial German Government should deem itself to be in possession of convincing evidence that the officials of the government of the United States did not perform these duties with thoroughness, the government of the United States sincerely hopes that it will submit that evidence for consideration.

IRRELEVANT CONTENTIONS.

"Whatever may be the contentions of the Imperial government regarding the carriage of contraband of war on board the Lusitania or regarding the explosion of that material by the torpedo, it need only be said that in the view of this government these contentions are irrelevant to the question of the legality of the methods used by the German naval authorities in sinking the vessel.

"But the sinking of passenger ships involves principles of humanity which throw into the background any special circumstances of detail that may be thought to affect the cases, principles which lift it, as the Imperial German government will no doubt be quick to recognize and acknowledge, out of the class of ordinary subjects of diplomatic discussion or of international controversy. Whatever be the other facts regarding the Lusitania, the principal fact is that a great steamer, primarily and chiefly a conveyance for passengers and carrying more than a thousand souls who had no part or lot in the conduct of the war, was torpedoed and sunk without so much as a challenge or a warning, and that men, women and children were sent to their death in circumstances unparalleled in modern warfare. The fact that more than 100 American citizens were among those who perished made it the duty of the government of the United States to speak of these things and once more, with solemn emphasis, to call the attention of the Imperial German government to the grave responsibility which the government of the United States conceives that it has incurred in this tragic occurrence and to the indisputable principle upon which that responsibility rests.

ON GROUND OF HUMANITY.

The government of the United States is contending for something much greater than mere rights of property or privileges of commerce—it is contending for nothing less high and sacred than the rights of humanity, which every government honors itself in respecting and which no government is justified in resigning on behalf of those under its care and authority. Only her actual resistance to capture or refusal to stop when ordered to do so for the purpose of visit could have afforded the commander of the submarine any justification for so much as putting the lives of those on board the ship in jeopardy. This principle the government of the United States understands the explicit instructions issued August 3, 1914, by the Imperial German Admiralty to its commanders at sea to have recognized and embodied, as do the naval codes of all other nations, and upon it every traveler and seaman had a right to depend. It is upon this principle of humanity as well as upon the law founded upon this principle that the United States must stand.

"The government of the United States is happy to observe that Your Excellency's note closes with the intimation that the Imperial German Government is willing, now as before, to accept the good offices of the United States in an attempt to come to an understanding with the government of Great Britain by which the character and conditions of the war upon the sea may be changed. The government of the United States would consider it a privilege thus to serve its friends and the world. It stands ready at any time to convey to either government any intimation or suggestion the other may be willing to have it convey and cordially invites the Imperial German Government to make use of its services in this way at its convenience. The whole world is concerned in anything that may bring about even a partial accommodation of interests or in any way mitigate the terrors of the present distressing conflict.

"In the meantime, whatever arrangements may happily be made between the parties to the war and whatever may in the opinion of the Imperial German Government have been the provocation or the circumstantial justification for the past acts of its commanders at sea, the government of the United States confidently looks to see the justice and humanity of the government of Germany vindicated in all cases where Americans have been wronged or their rights as neutrals invaded.

"The government of the United States, therefore, very earnestly and very solemnly renews the original representation of its note transmitted to the Imperial German Government on the 15th of May, and relies in these representations upon the principles of humanity, the universally recognized understandings of international law and the ancient friendship of the German nation.

RIGHTS OF NEUTRALS.

"The government of the United States cannot admit that the proclamation of a war zone from which neutral ships have been warned to keep away may be made to operate as in any degree an abbreviation of the rights either of American shipmasters or of American citizens bound on lawful errands as passengers on merchant ships of belligerent nationality. It does not understand the Imperial German government to question those rights. It understands it, also, to accept as established beyond question the principle that the lives of noncombatants cannot lawfully or rightfully be put in jeopardy by the capture or destruction of an unresisting merchantman, and to recognize the obligation to take sufficient precaution to ascertain whether a suspected merchantman is in fact of belligerent nationality or is in fact carrying contraband of war under a neutral flag. The government of the United States therefore deems it reasonable to expect that the Imperial German government will adopt the measures necessary to put these principles into practice in respect to the safeguarding of American lives and American ships, and asks for assurances that this will be done.

BRYAN WOULD USE SUASION

Former Secretary Presents His Case To the People—Two Systems Of Diplomacy.

Washington. — William Jennings Bryan in an appeal addressed "To the American people," asks them to hear him before they pass sentence upon his laying down the portfolio of Secretary of State in the midst of international stress.

Confident that the public will credit him with honorable intentions, Mr. Bryan frankly says that good intentions are not enough, and that if the public verdict is against him, he asks no mercy, asserting that men in public life must be "willing to bear any deserved punishment from ostracism to execution."

Interpreting the American note to Germany on submarine warfare, which he refused to sign, as conforming to the "old system" of diplomatic standards, precedents for which "are written in characters of blood upon almost every page of human history," and characterizing himself as a champion of the new system—persuasion instead of force—and as "an humble follower of the Prince of Peace," the former Secretary of State pleads for the United States to lead the world "out of the black night of war into the light of that day 'when swords shall be beaten into plowshares.'"

Briefs in behalf of the 64 Western railroads which have petitioned for increases in freight rates were forwarded to the Interstate Commerce Commission, from Chicago.

TIME LIMIT WILL BE SET FOR MEXICO

President Wilson Will Give Leaders 30 to 60 Days.

TO BRING ABOUT PEACE

Neither Villa Nor Carranza Disposed To Flaunt United States—First Chief Wants Recognition.

Washington.—President Wilson will take up with his Cabinet this week consideration of the replies which Carranza and Villa have made to his statement of June 3, warning the rival leaders to get together and restore peace and order in Mexico.

At the same time Du Val West, of San Antonio, Texas, who was the President's last special investigator in Mexico and whose report on conditions there was responsible for the change in policy, will return to Washington to confer with the President.

It is confidentially expected in official circles that the next step taken by the President will be the issuance of another statement, giving the rival factions from 30 to 60 days in which to compose their differences and bring about peace.

One Of Three Causes Likely.

Should they fail to do this, officials here believe that the President will take one of the following three courses:

First—Accord recognition to that faction which appears best able to handle the situation and, by establishing an embargo on the shipment of arms and ammunition from this country to any other faction, discriminate actively in favor of the faction recognized; or,

Second—Seek out a leader of unidentified activity with either Carranza or Villa or their respective factions, and by similar favors assist this "dark horse" to restore peace and set up a government; or,

Third—Send the United States Army into Mexico to clean up the country, and by force compel the discordant elements to get together.

This, it was recalled, was the method which the United States was compelled to employ in Cuba after the Spanish-American War, when rival factions were threatening to disrupt the government of that republic.

Not Promising For Harmony.

While Administration officials see an element of hope in the fact that neither Carranza nor Villa seems disposed to flaunt the United States, their replies, when taken together, are far from promising a harmonious adjustment. Villa, on the one hand, not only proposes, in line with President Wilson's suggestion, a conference of leaders to draw up a plan for the reestablishment of order, but informs President Wilson that he has already sent invitations to that end to Carranza, Zapata and Provisional President Chizaro.

Carranza, however, while graciously offering to eliminate himself in the interest of peace, postpones the day of his elimination to the time when he shall have crushed Villa and Zapata. Meanwhile the wily old chieftain expresses the wish and the hope that President Wilson will assist him to a consummation of his plans by according him recognition and the prerogatives thereof.

GERMANS NEED PAPER.

Syndicate Makes Appeal For Suppression Of High Duty.

London.—A syndicate of German newspaper publishers has addressed to Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, according to a Berlin dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company, a request for the immediate suppression of the duty on foreign paper. The publishers declare that unless this is done it is doubtful if they will be able to continue the publication of their papers if the war continues for an extended period, as present prices are virtually prohibitive and their losses of revenue as the result of the conflict average 50 per cent.

The wedding date has not been set. Mr. Clark is a clerk at the Speaker's table in the House of Representatives. He is 25 years old and his bride-to-be is two years his junior.

Bryan Points Out That No Secretary Ever Worked Harder.

Washington.—Mr. Bryan announced that he will devote the next two weeks to resting. In a statement announcing his movements, Mr. Bryan emphasized that none of his predecessors had served more hours at his desk, a greater number of days in the year, and added that Mrs. Bryan, who had shared the strains with him, was also in need of a rest.

DOINGS AT THE STATE CAPITAL

Measure Aimed To Avoid Repetition Of Atherholt Incident Becomes Law.

Harrisburg.—Approval by the Governor of the Ostrander bill, codifying the regulations for registration of births and deaths and placing the business solely in the control of the Commissioner of Health, was announced. The bill repeals all other Acts and states specifically that no system except that provided by the bill shall be enforced. Reductions of fees are also provided. This bill will clear away any misunderstanding or questions such as occurred in Philadelphia last year.

The Governor also announced approval of the bill presented by Senator Charles A. Snyder to complete the State's supervision of employment agencies. A few days ago a bill was approved to establish a State bureau and the bill announced as approved the State's supervision over all private agencies and requires a State license.

The measure commonly known as the escheat bill was signed by the Governor. It is intended to provide that all unclaimed deposits of money in banks, trust companies and similar institutions shall become the property of the State. It is supposed that several million dollars of such money is accumulated in the banks throughout the State, although there has been no way of accurately estimating the amount.

The Governor also signed the following bills:—

Making it unlawful for attorneys, servants or employes to receive compensation for insurance on the lives of their clients or employers.

Authorizing borough to form a State association.

Providing for the burial of honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines at county expense.

Providing a system for the regulating of conditional sales of goods.

Rearranging State road routes in Clearfield, Huntingdon, Allegheny, Cambria and Erie Counties.

Regulating practice in trials under the workmen's exemption law.

Increasing the salary of the Chief of the State Department of Mines from $4,000 to $5,000, and the salary of the deputy chief of the department from $2,500 to $3,500.

Senate bill regulating the plotting by first-class cities of parks and parkways in built-up sections. When any parkway or park has been put on the city plan it is to be considered an appropriation at the end of three years. Certain allowances are given for five years to those desiring to make alterations to buildings under direction of the city.

Senate bill regulating notices for application for second-class charters.

Senate bill authorizing erection of garages fronting on highways ten or more feet in width in first-class cities.

House bill amending providing that court may enter judgment on the pleadings in favor of the party appearing to be entitled to or for the plaintiff in default of an answer by the defendant.

Senate bill amending Act of July 24, 1913, regulating commodities by providing that it shall go into effect January 1, 1914, and that no penalty shall be exacted because of foreign products imported eighteen months after its passage.

House bill authorizing exoneration of John McSorley, of Pittsburgh, from payment of tax on a mortgage for which he should not have been assessed.

Governor Signs Bill He Vetoed.

Harrisburg.—For the first time within the knowledge of men connected with the State government here a veto has been recalled after having been announced and the bill signed. This reversal has been taken by Governor Brumbaugh with the bill presented by Representative Richard J. Baldwin, of Delaware county, providing for State regulation of five insurance rate making bureaus. The approval was confirmed on inquiry at the office of the Governor. It was stated that as the veto had not been officially recorded in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth it had not been consummated and therefore the approval would hold.

In the list of vetoes given out is one of the bill presented by Representative William McCaig, of Pittsburgh, providing a method for payment of cost of persons committed to psychopathic wards, which the Commonwealth held to maintain. The Governor had announced this bill in the list of approvals on Monday, but apparently a mistake was made and the veto is given out as of full force and effect. The Governor smites the bill on the ground that it is vague and does not make it clear that the bounty of the State should be given only to the indigent.

The Governor also announced the veto of House bill authorizing certain corporations, societies and associations having subordinate lodges to change location of principal office.

The Governor vetoed Senate bill 783, authorizing municipalities that own water works or electric light or power plants to lease the same with the consent of the Public Service Commission.

The bill repealing the graded tax law of 1913 for second class cities is vetoed, because there has not been in force long enough to give it a fair trial, and because of the numerous protests against the repealer.

SYNOPSIS.

—11—

Le Comte de Sabron, captain of French cavalry, takes to his quarters to raise by hand a motherless Irish terrier pup, and names it Pitchoune. He dines with the Marquise d'Esclignac and meets Miss Julia Redmond, American heiress. He is ordered to Algiers but is not allowed to take servants or dogs. Miss Redmond takes care of Pitchoune, who, longing for his master, runs away from her. The marquise plans to marry Julia to the Duc de Tremont. Pitchoune follows Sabron to Algiers, dog and master meet, and Sabron gets permission to keep his dog with him. The Duc de Tremont finds the American heiress capricious. Sabron, wounded in an engagement, falls into the dry bed of a river and is watched over by Pitchoune. After a horrible night and day Pitchoune leaves him. Tremont takes Julia and the marquise to Algiers in his yacht but has doubts about Julia's Red Cross mission. After long search Julia gets trace of Sabron's whereabouts.

CHAPTER XVIII—Continued.

From where he stood, Tremont could see the Comtesse de la Maine in her little shadow, the oriental decorations a background to her slight Parisian figure, and a little out of the shadow, the bright aigret in her hair danced, shaking its sparkles of fire. She looked infinitely sad and infinitely appealing. One bare arm was along the back of her lounge. She leaned her head upon her hand.

After a few moments the Duc de Tremont quietly left the piano and Miss Redmond, and went and sat down beside the Comtesse de la Maine, who, in order to make a place for him, moved out of the shadow.

Julia, one after another, played songs she loved, keeping her fingers resolutely from the notes that wanted to run into a single song, the music, the song that linked her to the man whose life had become a mystery. She glanced at the Duc de Tremont and the Comtesse de la Maine. She glanced at her aunt, patting Mimi, who, freshly washed, adorned by pale blue ribbon, looked disdainful and princely, and with passion and feeling she began to sing the song that seemed to reach beyond the tawdry room of the villa in Algiers, and to go into the desert, trying in sweet intensity to speak and to comfort, and as she sat so singing to one man, Sabron would have adored adding that picture to his collection.

The servant came up to the marquise and gave her a message. The lady rose, beckoned Tremont to follow her, and went out on the veranda, followed by Mimi. Julia stopped playing and went over to the Comtesse de la Maine.

"Where have my aunt and Monsieur de Tremont gone, Madame?"

"To see someone who has come to suggest a camel excursion, I believe."

"He chooses a curious hour."

"Everything is curious in the East, Mademoiselle," returned the comtesse. "I feel as though my own life were turned upside down."

"We are not far enough in the East for that," smiled Julia Redmond. She regarded the comtesse with her frank girlish scrutiny. There was in it a fine truthfulness and utter disregard of all the barriers that long epochs of etiquette put between souls.

Julia Redmond knew nothing of French society and of the deference due to the arts of the old world. She knew, perhaps, very little of anything. She was young and unschooled. She knew, as some women know, how to feel, and how to be, and how to love. She was as honest as her ancestors, among whose traditions is the story that one of them could never tell a lie.

Julia Redmond sat beside the Comtesse de la Maine, whose elegance she admired enormously, and taking one of the lady's hands, with a frank liking she asked in her rich young voice:

"Why do you tolerate me, Madame?"

"Ma chere enfant," exclaimed the comtesse. "Why, you are adorable."

"It is terribly good of you to say so," murmured Julia Redmond. "It shows how generous you are."

"But you attribute qualities to me I do not deserve, Mademoiselle."

"You deserve them and much more, Madame. I loved you the first day I saw you; no one could help loving you."

Julia Redmond was irresistible. The Comtesse de la Maine had remarked her caprices, her moods, her sadness. She had seen that the good spirits were false and, as keen women do, she had attributed it to a love affair with the Duc de Tremont. The girl's frankness was contagious. The Comtesse de la Maine murmured:

"I think the same of you, ma chere, vous etes charmante."

Julia Redmond shook her head. She did not want compliments. The eyes of the two women met and read each other.

"Couldn't you be frank with me, Madame? It is so easy to be frank."

It was, indeed, impossible for Julia Redmond to be anything else. The comtesse, who was only a trifle older than the young girl, felt like her mother just then. She laughed.

"But be frank—about what?"

"You see," said Julia Redmond swiftly, "I care absolutely nothing for the Duc de Tremont, nothing."

"You don't love him?" returned Madame de la Maine, with deep accentuation. "Is it possible?"

The girl smiled.

"Yes, quite possible. I think he is a perfect dear. He is a splendid friend and I am devoted to him, but I don't love him at all, not at all."

"Ah!" breathed Madame de la Maine, and she looked at the American girl guardedly.

For a moment it was like a passage of arms between a frank young Indian chief and a Jesuit. Julia, as it were, shook her feathers and her beads.

"And I don't care in the least about being a duchess! My father made his money in oil. I am not an aristocrat like my aunt," she said.

"Then," said the Comtesse de la Maine, forgetting that she was a Jesuit, "you will marry Robert de Tremont simply to please your aunt?"

"But nothing on earth would induce me to marry him!" cried Julia Redmond. "That's what I'm telling you, Madame. I don't love him!"

The Comtesse de la Maine looked at her companion and bit her lip. She blushed more warmly than is permitted in the Faubourg St.-Germain, but she was young and the western influence is pernicious.

"I saw at once that you loved him," said Julia Redmond frankly. "That's why I speak as I do."

The Comtesse de la Maine drew back and exclaimed.

"Oh," said Julia Redmond, "don't deny it. I shan't like you half so well if you do. There is no shame in being in love, is there?—especially when the man you love, loves you."

The Comtesse de la Maine broke down, or, rather, she rose high. She rose above all the smallness of convention and the rules of her French formal education.

"You are wonderful," she said, laughing softly, her eyes full of tears. "Will you tell me what makes you think that he is fond of me?"

"But you know it so well," said Julia. "Hasn't he cared for you for a long time?"

Madame de la Maine wondered just how much Julia Redmond had heard, and as there was no way of finding out, she said graciously:

"He has seemed to love me very dearly for many years; but I am poor; I have a child. He is ambitious and he is the Duc de Tremont."

"Nonsense," said Julia. "He loves you. That's all that counts. You will be awfully happy. You will marry the Duc de Tremont, won't you? There's a dear."

"Happy," murmured the other woman, "happy, my dear friend, I never dreamed of such a thing!"

"Dream of it now," said Julia Redmond swiftly, "for it will come true."

CHAPTER XIX.

The Man in Rags.

The Marquise d'Esclignac, under the stars, interviewed the native soldier, the beggar, the man in rags, at the foot of the veranda. There was a moon as well as stars, and the man was distinctly visible in all his squalor.

"What on earth is he talking about, Robert?"

"About Sabron, marraine," said her godson laconically.

The Marquise d'Esclignac raised her lorgnon and said:

"Speak, man! What do you know about Monsieur de Sabron? See, he is covered with dirt—has leprosy, probably." But she did not withdraw. She was a great lady and stood her ground. She did not know what the word "squeamish" meant.

Listening to the man's jargon and putting many things together, Tremont at last turned to the Marquise d'Esclignac who was sternly fixing the beggar with her haughty condescension:

"Marraine, he says that Sabron is alive, in the hands of natives in a certain district where there is no travel, in the heart of the seditious tribes. He says that he has friends in a caravan of merchants who once a year pass the spot where this native village is."

"The man's a lunatic," said the Marquise d'Esclignac calmly. "Get Abimelec and put him out of the garden, Robert. You must not let Julia hear of this."

"Marraine," said Tremont quietly, "Mademoiselle Redmond has already seen this man. He has come to see her tonight."

"How perfectly horrible!" said the Marquise d'Esclignac. Then she asked rather weakly of Tremont: "Don't you think so?"

"Well, I think," said Tremont, "that the only interesting thing is the truth there may be in what this man says. If Sabron is a captive, and he knows anything about it, we must use his information for all it is worth."

"Of course," said the Marquise d'Esclignac, "of course. The war department must be informed at once. Why hasn't he gone there?"

"He has explained," said Tremont, "that the only way Sabron can be saved is that he shall be found by outsiders. One hint to his captors would end his life."

"Oh!" said the Marquise d'Esclignac "I don't know what to do, Bob! What part can we take in this?"

Tremont pulled his mustache. Mimi had circled round the beggar, snuffing at his slippers and robe. The man made no objection to the little creature, to the fluffy ball surrounded by a huge bow, and Mimi sat peacefully down in the moonlight, at the beggar's feet.

"Mimi seems to like him," said the Marquise d'Esclignac helplessly, "she is very particular."

"She finds that he has a serious and convincing manner," said Tremont.

Now the man, who had been a silent listener to the conversation, said in fairly comprehensible English to the Marquise d'Esclignac:

"If the beautiful grandmother could have seen the Capitaine de Sabron on the night before the battle—"

"Grandmother, indeed!" exclaimed the marquise indignantly. "Come, Mimi! Robert, finish with this creature and get what satisfaction you can from him. I believe him to be an impostor; at any rate, he does not expect me to mount a camel or to lead a caravan to the rescue."

Tremont put Mimi in her arms; she folded her lorgnon and sailed majestic-

"Nonsense," Said Julia.

ally away, like a highly decorated pinnace with silk sails, and Tremont, in the moonlight, continued to talk with the sincere and convincing Hammet Abou.

CHAPTER XX.

Julia Decides.

Now the young girl had his letters and her own to read. They were sweet and sad companions and she laid them side by side. She did not weep, because she was not of the weeping type; she had hope.

Her spirits remained singularly even. Madame de la Maine had given her a great deal to live on.

"Julia, what have you done to Robert?"

"Nothing, ma tante."

"He has quite changed. This excursion to Africa has entirely altered him. He is naturally so gay," said the Marquise d'Esclignac. "Have you refused him, Julia?"

"Ma tante, he has not asked me to be the Duchess de Tremont."

Her aunt's voice was earnest.

"Julia, do you wish to spoil your life and your chances of happiness? Do you wish to mourn for a dead soldier who has never been more than an acquaintance? I won't even say a friend."

What she said sounded logical.

"Ma tante, I do not think of Monsieur de Sabron as dead, you know."

"Well, in the event that he may be, my dear Julia."

"Sometimes," said the girl, drawing near to her aunt and taking the older lady's hand quietly and looking in her eyes, "sometimes, ma tante, you are cruel."

The marquise kissed her and sighed: "Robert's mother will be so unhappy!"

"But she has never seen me, ma tante."

"She trusts my taste, Julia."

"There should be more than 'taste' in a matter of husband and wife, ma tante."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Suspicious.

George W. Perkins said at a dinner:

"There are some people who insist on seeing an octopus in every trust. These people cross-question you as suspiciously as the young wife cross-questioned her husband after the banquet.

"A young husband attended his first banquet, and a few days afterward his wife said to him:

"'Howard, is it true that you were the only sober man at that banquet?'

"'No, of course not!' Howard indignantly answered.

"'Who was, then?' said his wife.

Stoned Jail; Is Jailed.

In an effort to extricate her son Chester from jail by force, Mrs. Alice Rollins of Tappan, Rockland county, New York, was locked up herself and sentenced to 30 days' imprisonment in that village.

When the jailer refused to liberate her son, Mrs. Rollins gathered rocks and other ammunition and opened fire. She gave a correct imitation of the bombardment of Dixmude and reduced the glass in the jail windows to fragments before she was arrested. The son was committed to the house of refuge for burglary.

SECRETARY OF STATE BRYAN, OBJECTING TO NOTE TO BERLIN, QUITS OFFICE

Intimates in Letter to President That He Fears Latter's Stand On Submarine Campaign May Result in War Between United States and Germany.

Washington.—After Tuesday's Cabinet meeting Secretary of State Bryan resigned from President Wilson's Cabinet. The President has accepted the resignation, and Robert Lansing, counselor of the State Department, has been designated as acting secretary of state.

The resignation was based on the refusal of Secretary Bryan to sign the strict note of President Wilson to Germany making rejoinder to the German reply to President Wilson's note of May 13th, protesting against German submarine attacks on unarmed merchantmen, and demanding that submarine warfare on such vessels should cease.

Mr. Bryan regards Mr. Wilson's letter as too brusque and peremptory and holds that this government should have acceded to the German suggestion for an investigation to first determine all the facts in the Lusitania case.

Mr. Wilson's refusal to consider this suggestion and his determination to regard the charges that the Lusitania was armed, as irrelevant to the real issues involved, Mr. Bryan believes may lead to war. In his letter of resignation he states frankly that he and the President "differ irreconcilably," and he also says that to remain longer in the Cabinet which has approved Mr. Wilson's note "would be unfair to the cause which is nearest my heart, namely, the prevention of war."

Lansing As Acting Premier.

Secretary Bryan has been endeavoring to have the President revise his decision, but the President, backed by his Cabinet and supported by American public opinion, insisted upon his position, and the note that was drafted and which was approved at the cabinet meeting went forward without revision or compromise.

While there was no official admission of differences of opinion in the Cabinet, and newspaper reports to that effect were, in fact, unofficially denied, it became known that several times since the issue with Germany became acute Secretary Bryan has indicated his desire to leave the Cabinet rather than sacrifice his convictions.

Woodrow Wilson

SECRETARY BRYAN'S RESIGNATION.

Secretary Bryan's letter of resignation was as follows:

"My dear Mr. President—

"It is with sincere regret that I have reached the conclusion that I should return to you the commission of Secretary of State with which you honored me at the beginning of your administration.

"Obedient to your sense of duty and actuated by the highest motives, you have prepared for transmission to the German government a note in which I cannot join without violating what I deem to be an obligation to my country, and the issue involved is of such moment that to remain a member of the Cabinet would be as unfair to you as it would be to the cause which is nearest my heart, namely, the prevention of war.

"I, therefore, respectfully tender my resignation, to take effect when the note is sent, unless you prefer an earlier hour. Alike desirous of reaching a peaceful solution of the problems arising out of the use of submarines against merchantmen, we find ourselves differing irreconcilably as to the methods which should be employed.

"It falls to your lot to speak officially for the nation. I consider it to be none the less my duty to endeavor, as a private citizen, to promote the end which you have in view by means which you do not feel at liberty to use.

"In severing the intimate and pleasant relations which have existed between us during the past two years, permit me to acknowledge the profound satisfaction which it has given me to be associated with you in the important work which has come before the State Department, and to thank you for the courtesy extended.

"With the heartiest good wishes for your personal welfare and for the success of your administration, I am, my dear Mr. President,

"Very truly yours,

(Signed) "W. J. BRYAN."

PRESIDENT WILSON'S ACCEPTANCE.

The President's letter to Mr. Bryan was as follows:

"My dear Mr. Bryan—

"I accept your resignation only because you insist upon its acceptance; and I accept it with much more than deep regret, with a feeling of personal sorrow. Our two years of close association have been very delightful to me. Our judgments have accorded in practically every matter of official duty and of public policy until now; your support of the work and purposes of the administration has been generous and loyal beyond praise; your devotion to the duties of your great office and your eagerness to take advantage of every great opportunity for service it offered has been an example to the rest of us; you have earned our affectionate admiration and friendship. Even now we are not separated in the object we seek, but only in the method by which we seek it.

"It is for these reasons my feeling about your retirement from the secretaryship of state goes so much deeper than regret. I sincerely deplore it. Our objects are the same, and we ought to pursue them together. I yield to your desire only because I must, and wish to bid you godspeed in the parting. We shall continue to work for the same causes even when we do not work in the same way.

"With affectionate regard,

"Sincerely yours,

"WOODROW WILSON."

A GERMAN REPLY.

Holds To Her Original View That Frye Case Should Be Taken To a Prize Court.

Berlin, via London.—Germany has sent a note in reply to the representations of the American government regarding the American steamship William P. Frye, which was sunk by the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich last January. The note reiterates the original view taken by Germany, which was that the ship should be sent to a prize court.

The American government asked that compensation should be paid for the destruction of the vessel, without waiting for a decision by the prize court, but Germany, although ready to indemnify the owners for their loss to any case, under the provisions of the German-American treaty, holds as a general principle that, owing to the possibility that others than Americans have interests at stake, the prize court should first pass on all cases.

One of the handsome granite monuments in the Heckman cemetery, below Penn Hall, marks the resting place of Mr. and Mrs. John Shook, and is the work of H. G. Strohmeier, the local marble dealer. Millheim's Evangelistic Campaign.

Interest in the evangelistic campaign in Millheim is reaching fever heat. Half of the six weeks' campaign is completed and the results show that about one hundred and fifty persons have accepted Christ and the number is steadily increasing. During the past week the meetings have been so well attended that the tabernacle failed to hold all who wished to hear Evangelist Brown in his forceful and damaging attacks on sin and vice. Interest in religious matters appears to be getting a mighty grip upon many of the people of the community.

Thursday night was "Booster's Night." About one hundred children, all under twelve years of age, occupied the choir and gave some splendid selections which were highly appreciated by all. Mr. Goodwin has won the hearts of the children and they are doing their part nobly. Friday night a large crowd was present and enjoyed the special music, this being "Musical Night." On Sunday morning the meeting took the nature of a consecration service again and those who were present assert that it was one of the best services held up to the present time. Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock about eleven hundred women came and listened to the special address which was given to women only. Evangelist Brown has a way of presenting the truth along the line of questions of vital importance in life, which leaves the message of truth impressed on the hearts of the hearers in a way that can not be shaken off. A large crowd was in attendance in the evening. The subject of the evening was, "The unpardonable sin." The message was presented in a way that cleared up much of the cloudy atmosphere of doubt and fear in the hearts of many. Twenty-five or more persons hit the trail at the conclusion of the service, this being the largest number that ever surrendered to the Lord during the campaign at any one time.

The meetings are just rightly getting hold of the people and hopes are running high for a great ingathering of souls before the meetings close.

DIXON'S HEALTH TALKS.

Picnic Season Responsible for Many Cases of Typhoid Fever, Says Commissioner

The picnic season has begun. Every alluring spot for miles around in the vicinity of the towns and cities will be the Mecca for pleasure seekers from now until the frost comes.

Almost everybody attends a picnic sometime during the season. Now that the automobile has made even the remote districts readily accessible for city dwellers, the number of urban residents who seek an occasional day's relaxation in the country, has tremendously increased.

Nobody thinks of going on a picnic without taking a generous supply of food but few people are far sighted enough to carry their drinking water. Some spring, brook, or farmer's well they feel, will be sure to supply this essential. As a result of this indiscriminate dependence upon unfamiliar sources of water supply, there are hundreds of pleasure seekers who contract typhoid fever every season.

That period of the year when typhoid fever is always most prevalent is that at the end and immediately following the vacation season. While this is not alone the result of picnics they unquestionably play an important part in this annual toll of illness and death.

It is not a difficult matter if one is taking an auto trip to carry a supply of drinking water from a source that is known to be uncontaminated. Moderate priced vacuum bottles or other forms of containers can be secured which will keep the water cool.

If a local water supply with which one is unfamiliar must be used boiling the water for twenty minutes will make it safe. Unfortunately clear water is by no means always pure water. Many a sparkling, crystal clear, roadside spring is open to pollution and no matter how attractive the little brooklet which babbles along under the overhanging trees may appear, one must needs follow it to its source to be certain that it is free from contamination. So for safety's sake carry your drinking water in the picnic basket.

NOTE TO GREAT BRITAIN SOON

U. S. to Insist on Change in Operation of Blockade.

GERARD DELIVERS NOTE

Probably Willing To Concede the American Demand That Unarmed Passenger Ships Be Immune Providing Great Britain Concedes the Failure Of Its Attempt To Starve Out Germany and Abandon It.

A cablegram from Ambassador Gerard to the State Department announced the delivery of President Wilson's note to the German Foreign Office. No answer is expected immediately. Indeed, it may well be a fortnight before the German reply is handed to Mr. Gerard. Herr Meyer-Gerhard, Count von Bernstorff's emissary, cannot arrive in Berlin for several days, and it is certain that the German government will not until his arrival take up seriously the question of giving President Wilson the assurances he demands for the future safeguarding of American lives and American ships.

Optimistic Feeling.

There is a feeling of pronounced optimism in Washington. It is believed that the German government will respond to President Wilson's appeal for humanity and that it will make every effort to comply with the demands of the note. President Wilson does not demand the abandonment of the fearful havoc which the German submarines are playing on British shipping, but he does demand that unarmed and unresisting merchantmen carrying passengers, whether belligerent or neutral, shall be immune from further attack.

There is authority for the belief that the German government will make this concession, provided Great Britain in turn concedes the failure of its "hunger crusade" policy and abandons it.

Wilson Will Co-Operate.

President Wilson will heartily cooperate with the Germans in any suggestions that will induce Great Britain to rescind its orders which forbid the transportation of foodstuffs for noncompetence in Germany. Secretary Lansing said that this government could not initiate negotiations with Great Britain to that end, especially as previous overtures to Great Britain had been disregarded by that government. President Wilson in his note invites the German government to make suggestions which this government will gladly convey to Great Britain, but until these suggestions have been received nothing will be done.

Several persons and 50 horses, cattle and mules have developed the disease. It is somewhat similar to the foot-and-mouth disease and is said to be quite as serious.

BRYAN'S REASONS FOR RESIGNING

Explains Wherein He Differed With President.

WEDDED TO PEACE TREATIES

Former Premier Also Declares That Americans Should Be Warned Not To Travel On Vessels Carrying Munitions Of War.

Washington. — William Jennings Bryan retired Wednesday at Secretary of State. His first act as a private citizen was to issue a statement explaining his reasons for leaving the Cabinet and announcing that he intended to lay his view of what the American policy toward Germany should be before the public for judgment.

The statement came as a sensational climax to a day of farewell speeches and good wishes from President Wilson and executive colleagues of the retiring secretary.

In his explanation Mr. Bryan revealed that the President had not felt justified in adopting two suggestions made by his Secretary of State—that an offer should be made to Germany to submit the questions in dispute with the United States to an international commission for investigation during a year's time and that meanwhile Americans should, by proclamation, be warned not to take passage on any belligerent ships or on American vessels carrying ammunition. These propositions Mr. Bryan expects to urge on the people "in the hope of securing such an expression of public sentiment as will support the President in employing these remedies if in the future he finds it consistent with his sense of duty to favor them."

Officials Amazed.

Mr. Bryan's statement was received with undisguised amazement in official quarters. No comment was made at the White House, but some high officials indicated that they believed it most unfortunate that so pronounced an expression of opinion should be made public while the discussion with Germany was in progress.

The principle advocated by Mr. Bryan is embodied in treaties of peace negotiated by the United States with 30 nations, and was accepted by Germany although no convention ever was drafted. The statement is a condensation of the argument which Secretary Bryan has been making repeatedly to President Wilson in the last few weeks, and upon which he hopes to build up a public sentiment in the United States that will make war with Germany impossible.

The issuance of the explanation had been timed to coincide exactly with the despatch of the American note to Germany.

Spurr, archdeacon of the West Virginia Diocese of the Episcopal Church.

ZEPPELIN BLOWN TO PIECES IN AIR

Canadian Aviator Wins Duel Among the Clouds.

EXPLOIT FIRST ON RECORD

Attacking Aeroplane Turned Upside Down When Bombs Explode the Dirigible's Gas Bag—The Pilot Rights Machine.

London.—For the first time on record a Zeppelin in the air has been destroyed by an aviator in an aeroplane. Reginald A. J. Warneford, a young Canadian sub-lieutenant in the Royal Navy, who mastered aeroplaning only this summer, has performed the feat, and is somewhere within the British lines, while the Zeppelin lies in ruins, sprawled on the roof and grounds of an orphanage near Ghent.

Falling there a blazing mass, after being struck by the young aviator's bombs, its crew of 28 men were killed, as also were several occupants of the orphanage buildings.

The theory is advanced that this Zeppelin was the craft which raided the east coast of England Sunday night for the fact that it was in the air over Belgium, between Ghent and Brussels, at 3 o'clock in the morning, leads to the belief that it was returning from an expedition, not starting. Dawn breaks early these days, and the huge Zeppelin could be sighted far off, and it is presumed that the craft was headed for her home hangar when Warneford came winging swiftly under the gray skies.

Long Pursuit.

The Zeppelin, which was flying comparatively low, began to mount at once, but the British, wasp was speedier and climbed into the air in long spirals, reaching a position at length over the German's vast bulk. From this point of vantage Warneford pierced the Zeppelin's shell repeatedly with his incendiary bombs.

Without parallel in this war or any other, is the story which the young aviator will have to relate, for details of the fight have not yet been told. First came the long pursuit, for, according to the Admiralty report, the aeroplane was 6,000 feet up. To reach this altitude would require nearly 20 minutes, and the Zeppelin meantime could drive forward approximately 15 miles.

Then followed the maneuvering for position, and finally the dropping of the bombs from which the dirigible tried vainly to escape. Minor explosions occurred, and, at last, one of terrific force, and the Zeppelin burst into flames.

Aeroplane Turns Turtle.

At that moment Warneford must have been at close range over the dirigible, for almost simultaneously with the outburst his machine turned completely over, and for a moment he hung head down with his monoplane, all control of which had been lost, pitching and tossing in the swift currents of air which rushed up to fill the vacuum created.

Then by a desperate effort Warneford righted his machine far above the earth and planed to a landing behind the German lines. He alighted unhurt, set his propeller going again and flew off to the west.

CABINET BACK OF WILSON.

Absolutely Solid In Support Of Policy, Declares Lane.

New York.—An honorary degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, by New York University at its commencement exercises here. While at the exercises Secretary Lane said in reply to questions that rumors of further resignations from the President's Cabinet were without the slightest foundation. "Then that means that with the exception of Mr. Bryan the Cabinet is solidly behind the President in his present policy in the international situation?" he was asked. "Absolutely," he replied.

DOINGS AT THE STATE CAPITAL

Measure Aimed To Avoid Repetition Of Atherholt Incident Becomes Law.

Harrisburg.—Approval by the Governor of the Ostrander bill, codifying the regulations for registration of births and deaths and placing the business solely in the control of the Commissioner of Health, was announced. The bill repeals all other Acts and states specifically that no system except that provided by the bill shall be enforced. Reductions of fees are also provided. This bill will clear away any misunderstanding or questions such as occurred in Philadelphia last year.

The Governor also announced approval of the bill presented by Senator Charles A. Snyder to complete the State's supervision of employment agencies. A few days ago a bill was approved to establish a State bureau and the bill announced as approved the State's supervision over all private agencies and requires a State license.

The measure commonly known as the escheat bill was signed by the Governor. It is intended to provide that all unclaimed deposits of money in banks, trust companies and similar institutions shall become the property of the State. It is supposed that several million dollars of such money is accumulated in the banks throughout the State, although there has been no way of accurately estimating the amount.

The Governor also signed the following bills:—

Making it unlawful for attorneys, servants or employes to receive compensation for insurance on the lives of their clients or employers.

Authorizing borough to form a State association.

Providing for the burial of honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines at county expense.

Providing a system for the regulating of conditional sales of goods.

Rearranging State road routes in Clearfield, Huntingdon, Allegheny, Cambria and Erie Counties.

Regulating practice in trials under the workmen's exemption law.

Increasing the salary of the Chief of the State Department of Mines from $4,000 to $5,000, and the salary of the deputy chief of the department from $2,500 to $3,500.

Senate bill regulating the plotting by first-class cities of parks and parkways in built-up sections. When any parkway or park has been put on the city plan it is to be considered an appropriation at the end of three years. Certain allowances are given for five years to those desiring to make alterations to buildings under direction of the city.

Senate bill regulating notices for application for second-class charters.

Senate bill authorizing erection of garages fronting on highways ten or more feet in width in first-class cities.

House bill amending providing that court may enter judgment on the pleadings in favor of the party appearing to be entitled to or for the plaintiff in default of an answer by the defendant.

Senate bill amending Act of July 24, 1913, regulating commodities by providing that it shall go into effect January 1, 1914, and that no penalty shall be exacted because of foreign products imported eighteen months after its passage.

House bill authorizing exoneration of John McSorley, of Pittsburgh, from payment of tax on a mortgage for which he should not have been assessed.

Governor Signs Bill He Vetoed.

Harrisburg.—For the first time within the knowledge of men connected with the State government here a veto has been recalled after having been announced and the bill signed. This reversal has been taken by Governor Brumbaugh with the bill presented by Representative Richard J. Baldwin, of Delaware county, providing for State regulation of five insurance rate making bureaus. The approval was confirmed on inquiry at the office of the Governor. It was stated that as the veto had not been officially recorded in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth it had not been consummated and therefore the approval would hold.

In the list of vetoes given out is one of the bill presented by Representative William McCaig, of Pittsburgh, providing a method for payment of cost of persons committed to psychopathic wards, which the Commonwealth held to maintain. The Governor had announced this bill in the list of approvals on Monday, but apparently a mistake was made and the veto is given out as of full force and effect. The Governor smites the bill on the ground that it is vague and does not make it clear that the bounty of the State should be given only to the indigent.

The Governor also announced the veto of House bill authorizing certain corporations, societies and associations having subordinate lodges to change location of principal office.

The Governor vetoed Senate bill 783, authorizing municipalities that own water works or electric light or power plants to lease the same with the consent of the Public Service Commission.

Some of Those Who Need Reforming.

"How nice it would be," mordaciously remarked J. Fuller Gloom of Sniffles, Mo., "if the village drunkard, the oldest inhabitant, the town gossip, the life of the party, the glee club, the woman who comes of a fine old family, the political wheelhorse, the natural-born humorist, the local poet, the dramatic reciter, the preacher who tries to get down to the masses, the lady who is greatly troubled over our lack of culture, and several others whom I could name, would experience a change of heart and reform!"—Kansas City Star.

The Look in French Faces.

Almost all the faces about these crowded tables (in the cafe at Chalons)—young or old, plain or handsome, distinguished or average—have the same look of quiet authority; it is as though all "nervosity," fussiness, little personal oddities, meanness and vulgarities, had been burned away in a great flame of self-dedication. It is a wonderful example of the rapidity with which purpose models the human countenance.—Edith Wharton in Scribner's Magazine.

The great trouble about taking a chance is that you can't always put it back where you found it.

SHE QUIT
But It Was a Hard Pull.

It is hard to believe that coffee will put a person in such a condition as it did an Ohio woman. She tells her own story:

"I did not believe coffee caused my trouble, and frequently said I liked it so well I would not, and could not, quit drinking it, but I was a miserable sufferer from heart trouble and nervous prostration for four years.

"I was scarcely able to be around, had no energy and did not care for anything. Was emaciated and had a constant pain around my heart until I thought I could not endure it.

"Frequently I had nervous chills and the least excitement would drive sleep away, and any little noise would upset me terribly. I was gradually getting worse until finally I asked myself what's the use of being sick all the time and buying medicine so that I could indulge myself in coffee?

"So I got some Postum to help me quit. I made it strictly according to directions and I want to tell you that change was the greatest step in my life. It was easy to quit coffee because I now like Postum better than the coffee.

"One by one the old troubles left until now I am in splendid health, nerves steady, heart all right and the pain all gone. Never have any more nervous chills, don't take any medicine, can do all my house work and have done a great deal besides."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Postum comes in two forms:

Postum Cereal—the original form—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—a soluble powder—dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

Both kinds are equally delicious and cost about the same per cup.

SAVE WILLIAM PENN'S CHAIRS

National Heirlooms, About to Fall Apart, Have Been Repaired by Blind Women.

Two quaint and graceful chairs that once belonged to William Penn have just been repaired by two women who have never seen the chairs, says the Philadelphia Ledger. The two women are inmates of the Pennsylvania Industrial Home for Blind Women. The chairs are preserved in the east room of Independence hall, on the second floor. Year by year the cane bottoms of the famous old relics have been gradually cracking and falling out. The committee in charge decided that unless the cane was replaced the woodwork might soon collapse. But they did not dare to let the chairs be taken out of Congress hall.

So they sent for Miss Ira Frost, mistress of handicraft at the Industrial Home for Blind Women, and she brought with her to the room two of the blind women who understood chair repairing. The work was peculiarly difficult, for it was impossible to erect in Congress hall the caning table needed to hold the chairs firmly in place, and, moreover, their woodwork was soft with age. But the deft "seeing fingers" of the bling women did the work in spite of all the difficulties, and now the precious William Penn chairs are safe.

BEST REMEDIES FOR SORES AND ULCERS

Mr. C. A. Butler, of Salem, Va., writes: "I can safely say that Hancock's Sulphur Compound is the best remedy I ever used for sores. One of my little boys, eight years old, had a solid sore all over his face, we tried different kinds of medicine, but none seemed to do any good. Our son, nineteen years old, had a sore on his leg for three months and nothing did him good. We used Hancock's Sulphur Compound on both and it did its work quickly and it was not over a week until both were well." Hancock's Sulphur Compound is sold by all dealers. Horse Chestnut.

"I was sitting on the bootblack's stand," said the story-teller, "when the parade came along, the grand marshal riding a big bay horse at its head. Well, just as the head of the parade came opposite me, it stopped. The grand marshal's horse wouldn't go another step."

"Recognized you as his long lost half brother, I suppose," said one of his listeners maliciously.

"Think you're smart, don't you? Well, I'll tell you, anyhow. It was pride that made that horse stop—nothing but pride. He wanted his shoes shined."

Just Like a Man.

"Tom," said the bride of a week, "didn't you promise faithfully to give up smoking the day I married you?"

"Yes, my dear," replied Tom, "I believe I did."

"And now," she continued, "I find you puffing a cigar, just as though I weren't in existence. What explanation have you to offer?"

"Well, I kept my promise," replied the husband. "I didn't smoke a single cigar on our wedding day."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

We Don't Believe It.

"So you've moved to the country. How do you like it?"

"Great! Beats a stuffy old flat all hollow. And the best of it is, we get fresh eggs and vegetables almost as cheap as we could get them in the city."

Lost to Sight.

"How annoying! The English and German accounts of the latest battle don't agree."

"What can you expect? Truth and Veracity 'dug themselves in' when the first shot of the war was fired."

Homely.

"Can you give me any ideas about making my yard more beautiful?"

"Yes. Remain in the house?"

FOR THE WARM DAYS

PREPARATIONS OF FISH THAT ARE IN ORDER.

Dish That Has the Name of Venetian Is Palatable and Nourishing—Directions for Scalloping—Baked Bass or Pickerel.

Venetian Fish.—Chop enough carrot to measure a quarter of a cupful and add the same amount of chopped celery, with two tablespoonfuls each of green pepper and parsley, minced. Put with a quarter of a cupful of olive oil in a small saucepan and simmer for ten minutes, then spread over a fish that has been split and laid in a shallow, greased baking pan. Sprinkle over it a little lemon juice, salt and pepper, cover, and bake for about half an hour—until the fish is done. Slices of cod or halibut can be used instead of a split fish.

Scalloped Fish.—Steam two pounds of fish until tender and mince. Scald a pint of cream and add two well-beaten eggs and a little flour—about a teaspoonful—made smooth in cold milk. Cook over hot water until it is smooth and creamy, cool, and season with salt and pepper. Add the minced fish and a teaspoonful of minced parsley, and put the mixture into individual ramekins, shells or a big baking dish. Sprinkle with fine cracker crumbs and bits of butter, and brown in the oven.

Pickled Salmon. — Boil several pounds of salmon—or cod—and drain and cool it. Add to two or three cupfuls of water in which the fish was boiled the same quantity of vinegar, six cloves, a teaspoonful of whole pepper, the same amount of allspice, six blades of mace and half a nutmeg, ungrated. Bring to the boiling point, skim, and pour over the fish. When cold it is ready to serve, but it will keep well in a cool place for several days.

Baked Bass or Pickerel.—Chop eight onions fine and mix with half that amount of fine breadcrumbs. Season well with pepper and salt and add two or three tablespoonfuls of finely chopped salt pork and enough chopped tomatoes—freed from juice and the soft pulp, with just the firm part chopped—to make the stuffing red. Add red pepper, and stuff the fish. Bake until tender.

Jellied Trout.—Add a whole clove, some salt, three tablespoonfuls of good vinegar, a slice of onion, to a saucepan half full of cold water and place the trout in it. Simmer gently, so that the fish are not broken. When tender, drain and dip in aspic jelly, and when the first coat of jelly has hardened, dip again. Repeat this until there is a good layer of jelly on each trout.

To Cook Cauliflower.

When you are boiling a cauliflower you should leave a few of the tender leaves to make it look pretty. If you take them all off it is rather uninteresting in appearance.

Put it into rapidly boiling water, with the flower face downwards, and a wooden spoon put across the top to keep it from rising.

A young and tender cauliflower will take about a quarter of an hour. An older one from this time to half an hour. Many people serve this vegetable with a plain white sauce, made in the following way:

One ounce of butter, one-half pint of milk, one-half ounce of flour; pepper and salt.

Cream Puffs.

One cupful of hot water, one-half cupful of butter. Boil together, stirring in a cupful of dry flour while boiling. When cold, add three eggs, not beaten. Stir well. Drop by spoonfuls on buttered tins. Bake 20 minutes in a quick oven. Be careful not to open oven door more often than is necessary. This makes 15.

For the filling, take one cupful of milk, one-half cupful of sugar, one egg, three tablespoonfuls of flour. Boil as for any custard and flavor to taste. When both this and the puffs are cold open them carefully at one side and fill. They are delicious.

Orange Pudding.

Peel and cut five oranges into thin slices, taking out the seeds. Pour over them a coffee cup of fine white sugar. Let a pint of milk get boiling hot by setting it in a pot of boiling water. Add the yolks of three eggs well beaten, one tablespoonful of cornstarch made smooth with a little cold milk; stir all the time. As soon as thickened pour over the fruit. Beat the whites to a stiff froth, adding a tablespoonful of sugar, and spread over the top of frosting. Set it in the oven for a few minutes to harden. This pudding is best eaten cold.

Tomato Soup.

One quart can of tomatoes or equal amount of fresh tomatoes stewed together with four cloves, small piece of bay leaf, a few pieces of celery (or celery salt), salt and pepper to taste. Stew 20 minutes. While this is stewing fry a few pieces of onion in three tablespoonfuls of butter for five minutes, then add two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch to this, finally adding all to tomatoes. When thickened strain and serve with crackers. This is nice with beef broth added to tomatoes.

Cherry Salad.

Wipe cherries and remove stems and stones. Fill cavities with filberts and arrange in nests on lettuce leaves, using a cream mayonnaise.

ACT WAS NOT TO HIS LIKING

American Soldier Properly Resented Filipino's Insult to a Spanish Officer.

The story is told by an English naval officer who witnessed the occurrence in Manila: "As I was crossing one of the numerous bridges across the Pasig river, I saw a native Filipino spit in the face of a Spanish officer, and then run for protection to the American sentinel, who was pacing the bridge. It was some time before the Filipino could make himself understood, but when the sentry comprehended his action was very prompt indeed. He handed his gun to the Spanish officer, caught the native by the nape of the neck and the seat of his trousers, and pitched him off the bridge into the Pasig river. Then he calmly took his gun from the officer, and began pacing his beat, as if nothing had happened."—Unidentified.

Bordeaux Mixture for Potatoes.

A Pennsylvania potato grower wrote to State Zoologist H. A. Surface, Harrisburg, asking for detailed information for making Bordeaux mixture. He especially wanted to know if quick lime was to be used, and if it will injure the vines. As Bordeaux mixture is now recognized as the best possible material for spraying potatoes and grapes to keep them free from diseases, as well as to repel certain kinds of insects, this reply contains information that should be applied on every farm in this state. It is as follows:

"Bordeaux mixture consists of nothing more nor less than quick lime or freshly burned lime, and bluestone or copper sulfate. It has been recently proven that this is the best possible material for spraying grapes and potatoes, and that its use will greatly increase the potato yield, even when no pests are present. It appears, from experiments recently performed and published, that Bordeaux mixture greatly increases the vigor of the potato plant, and promotes its ability to form carbohydrates and to store up starch in the tubers. Sprayed vines live longer and produce fewer culls or small potatoes than do those unsprayed, even when blight or insects do not come.

For potatoes and grapes use four pounds of quick lime and three pounds of bluestone in fifty gallons of water. This will not injure the vines. Dissolve the bluestone in any kind of vessel excepting metal by using hot water.

Slake the lime in another vessel, and add enough water to make it thin, so you can pour it. Fill your spray barrel half full of water, and pour in the milk of lime, and the bluestone without mixing them together until after one or the other is dilute. In other words, do not put together your strong solution of bluestone and your thick lime mixture, but dilute one or the other or both first before mixing them. Then if you have potato beetles or flea beetles that you wish to kill add one pound of dry arsenate of lead, or two pounds of arsenate of lead paste to the fifty gallons of Bordeaux mixture. This makes Bordeaux and arsenate of lead. The Bordeaux is to prevent the blight and the arsenate is for the beetles."

12 COMMANDMENTS OF HEALTH.

If Carried Out Would Reduce World's Death Rate Fifty Per Cent., Says Octogenarian.

Twelve commandments of health which, he claims, if followed would reduce the world's death rate fifty per cent. were given by Dr. R. N. Foster at the New Jerusalem (Swedenborgian) church in Chicago. Dr. Foster, formerly a member of the faculty of Hahnemann Medical college, is nearly eighty-two years old. He attributes his longevity basically to the dozen rules of right living which he outlined to his adult Bible class at the church.

The commandments follow:

I. Do not eat too much. One hundred die before their time from overeating to one who dies from starvation.

II. Do not drink too much, especially of intoxicating beverages; they have slain their millions.

III. Do not work too hard or too many hours daily; be moderate.

IV. Do not be always in a hurry; a walk at two or three miles an hour may be prolonged to twelve hours or more daily without tiring.

V. Do not work too little; this ruins more human beings ten times over than does excess of labor. Better that a man should work all day for nothing than to be idle.

VI. Do work, no matter how simple, that links itself up with the common good, not with decadence; this relationship makes all work dignified and worthy; all other is destructive.

VII. Take just what sleep experience shows best maintains your health and strength; no more, no less.

VIII. Do not indulge in recreation for its own sake but for refreshment and renewed vigor for the serious duties of life.

IX. Dress primarily for use and comfort; secondarily for show and ornament, not vice versa.

X. Avoid excess of care, excitement, or anxiety; they enfeeble both mind and body.

XI. Shun all trespasses against the plain physiology of your existence and your reward will surely be your maximum of health, comfort, joy, and life.

XII. And, finally, this lays the surest external foundation for the life of the spirit here and hereafter.

The members of the Bible class range in ages from 25 to 85.

Governor Appoints Agricultural Board.

Governor Brumbaugh appointed the following men, all farmers, as members of the Board of Agriculture, a new department created by the Legislature: Frank S. Black, of Garrett; Marvin E. Bushong, of Quarryville; Albert J. Gilfillie, of Smithport; Henry T. Moor, of Morrisville; Maurice T. Phillips, of Pomeroy; I. P. Saxton, of Rome, and W. V. White, of Bloomsburg.

These men are all practical farmers and will constitute an advisory council for the State Department of Agriculture. They will serve without pay. The Governor has not yet designated who is his choice for the successor to Secretary Critchfield.

Weaver Pianos Endorsed By Sacred Heart Academy, Lancaster, Pa.

"After a careful investigation and thorough test we purchased two of your high-grade, upright Weaver Pianos, in September, 1901. We are pleased to report that the pianos have more than met our expectations. We find the actions carefully adjusted and the pianos capable of the finest shades of expression. The tone is of a substantial character and there is a pleasing absence of any metallic tendency. The tone gives immense volume when demanded and is just as pleasing in the pianissimo effects.
We are convinced that the pianos are instruments of the highest class and we take pleasure in recommending them.
Yours very truly,
Sister Superior,
Sacred Heart Academy
Lancaster, Pa."
These pianos are in almost constant use for practicing and teaching. Only instruments of genuine musical worth and great durability could call forth such words of praise.
